Didsbury Win First Home League Game

After being defeated last Wednesday by Crossfield in the opening game of the Rosebud League, the local boys were determined to be revenged and had their wish fulfilled, defeating the visitors 7-3. Hugh Lee, on the mound for Didsbury and Ward Wyman at the receiving end, proved to be too strong a battery for the visitors. Credit must also be given to the balance of the team, a few minor mistakes being made, none of which amounted to anything.

Eaton, the Crossfield twirler was not given the best of support, eight errors being made, all of which proved costly, especially in the first innings, when Didsbury crossed the fourth base four times. Didsbury's other three runs were obtained in the third, fifth and sixth innings. All Crossfield's runs came in the last two innings.

Innisfail 11, Didsbury 7

Innisfail won their third consecutive Rosebud League game at the expense of the Didsbury nine, Monday evening on the local diamond. The northerners played a good brand of ball, four innings, while McMahon was on the mound. Wilson started twirling for the visitors in the fifth innings but was not given the support McMahon had, and the local boys connected with him freely. Before the innings was finished, McMahon again came to the pitcher's plate and retired the next two men to face him. Joe Thompson gave McMahon a rest for the balance of the game.

Luft, on the mound for the home town, was very weak, only throwing

The local fire brigade was called out on Monday morning at 8:45 to tackle a fire that had gained much headway in an old out-building used as a chicken house by John Mortimer, in which there were about 100 chickens. On arriving, the fire in the chicken coop was too far advanced to extinguish, so the hose was turned on the old blacksmith shop, a few feet distant from the burning building. The blacksmith shop was saved through the continued efforts of the volunteer fire brigade.

Mountain View Municipality Fix Tax Rate

At the meeting of Mountain View Municipality, held in Olds last week, all the councillors were present.

The estimates for the coming year were made and the tax rate for 1930 was fixed at 10 mills, which is the same as last year.

It is estimated the council will spend approximately $15,000 during the year in improvements and maintenance of the roads in the municipality.

The capital grant by the provincial government, to be expended on market roads will be $4,000. The municipality will duplicate this amount, and this year should see considerable improvement in the main roads leading into the town.

The department will make an income grant of $1,842 which will also be duplicated by the council and can be spent on roads in any part of the district.

Let Contract For Surfacing Road

Subject to the approval of the highway commissioner, the town council has given a contract to Mr. I. L. Klein for the resurfacing of the highway within the town limits.

The grading gang will commence work this week, at the north end of the district.

OBITUARY

The passing of one of the oldest settlers in the Didsbury district occurred in the death of Prosper Vernon who died suddenly on Friday night. The immediate cause of death was due to hardening of the arteries and though he seemed in good spirits during the evening, he passed away during the night.

Deceased was 76 years of age and was born near Toronto, Ont. He came to Didsbury with his family in 1899 and homesteaded about five miles west of Didsbury. After leaving the farm, he resided in town.

He is survived by two sons, Silas Vernon of Didsbury, William Vernon of Nepawin, Sas., and two daughters, Mrs. H. H. Gibson of Didsbury and Mrs. Appts of Vancouver.

The funeral services were held in the Mennonite Church, Monday, Rev. A. Traub officiating, and the remains were interred in Didsbury Cemetery.

Cause For National Gratification

Profound satisfaction will be felt by the people of Western Canada, in common with the rest of the world, in the successful outcome of the Five Power naval conference in London, England. That satisfaction is all the greater, and the feeling of relief more pronounced, because of the many predictions freely made during the progress of the conference that its results would be nil, and quite abortive in the realization of the hopes in which it was conceived.

Because there were many conflicting viewpoints to be reconciled, many difficulties to be overcome, and the conference ran on month after month, the pessimists told an anxiously awaiting world that nothing would be accomplished because nothing could be; that the nations were still so suspicious of each other that they were afraid to disarm in even the slightest degree; that the old game was still being played with each nation trying to get some advantage at the expense of others.

But with the signing of an agreement by the three greatest naval powers, and acceptance of a portion of the agreement by the next two naval powers, the dire prophecies of the pessimists have been proven foundationless. Instead, the splendid optimism, the unflinching patience and courage of Ramsay MacDonald have triumphed, and a great forward step taken along the road to permanent world peace.

After a world war lasting more than four years, why should people have become discouraged and foreseen failure because a period of three months was required in discussion of the many knotty problems confronting the naval conference before a solution was found?

The British Commonwealth of Nations, the United States of America, and the Empire of Japan have found themselves whereby they undertake to reduce their naval armament and expenditures and voluntarily impose restrictions on themselves. The number, size and armament of ships of war is limited. And who, a few short years ago would have imagined it possible, all five powers agree that information will be given to each by all the others "of vessels it is building" in replacement of obsolete, abandoned and destroyed ships. This is not preparation for war, but for the maintenance of peace.

But the great achievement of the conference is not to be found so much in the actual reductions decided upon, or the limitations of actions voluntarily assumed, as it is in the established fact that the policy of friendly consultation between nations has been given an impetus which will undoubtedly grow. This more than anything else must fill the world with hope for the future.

The conference has also established beyond all possibility of dispute that, no matter how far the leaders of a nation may be prepared to go in the matter of disarmament, they can only proceed as far as public opinion at home will support them in going. The belief is general that the conference would have gone to even greater lengths in disarmament had the various representatives there felt assured of support at home, and that their very willingness to make concessions would not be used to overthrow the whole project when referred for final ratification by their national assemblies.

The great lesson of the conference for all peace-loving people is, therefore, the vital necessity of an awakened and informed public opinion in every land on the awful subject of war and preparation for war, rather than preparation for peace. Once again has it been demonstrated by this naval conference that no Government can move very far in advance of public opinion, no matter how laudable may be the motives by which it is inspired or praiseworthy the object sought to be attained.

It is the rank and file, the great mass of the people who must become peace-minded. It is the masses who must be informed and taught to shed their suspicions and animosities. The more ardent advocates of peace the peoples of all nations become, the more quickly will their recognized leaders and responsible statesmen write those wishes into solemn agreements and binding treaties.

Canadians, perhaps more than any other people in the world, have cause for thankfulness and rejoicing in the reaching of a naval understanding between the British Commonwealth, the United States and Japan. We are part and parcel of the British Commonwealth, while our nearest neighbors are the United States and Japan. With the former we have much in common, while with the latter by reason of our geographical position we must have ever increasing intercourse. Furthermore, any misunderstanding between the United States and Japan could hardly fail to react with injury to us. That all are in accord is cause for deep gratification in Canada.

Planning Big Air Field

Winnipeg May Have Combination
Land and Sea Plane Airport

Plans now being formulated by a special committee of the Industrial Development Board of Manitoba aim to provide Winnipeg with one of the most unique and best equipped combination land and sea plane airports on the continent. The plans, which have been approved by the Department of Aviation at Ottawa, include an air field 3,000 acres in extent with an artificial lake about two miles in diameter.

Canada Has Exclusive Method

Quality Of Canned Goods Must Be Marked On Label

Canada is the only country in the world so far to require the quality of canned goods to be clearly marked on the label so that the housewife can buy with the assurance that she is getting what she wants. Under the provisions of the Meat and Canned Foods Act, administered by the Fruit Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, there are four quality grades: "Fancy," "Choice," "Standard," and "Second." "Always buy by the quality mark" is a slogan can now be applied to home buying with a real value.

OWES HER HEALTH TO PINK PILLS

This Weak Anaemic Woman
Now Rejoices In Health and Strength

It is a scientific fact that nearly all the ills that afflict women are due to poor, thin blood. This anaemia is the one cause of low spirits and languidness, the poor appetite, breathlessness and aching backs that make life a burden for so many women. But suffering women could banish all these miseries by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, for it is a known fact that these pills create an abundance of new rich blood—their wonderful reputation is based on that. Proof of these statements is given by Mrs. L. Deschenes, La Tuque, Que., who says: "Before I began using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I was in a badly run down condition. I appeared to be almost bloodless, had frequent headaches, and the least exertion would leave me breathless and worn out. My husband advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and got for me six boxes. Almost from the first I noticed an improvement in my condition, and as I continued taking the pills my blood became better and I steadily grew stronger, till today I am enjoying the best of health. I am now able to do all my housework without feeling the least fatigue; my appetite is better and I sleep more soundly at night. All this I owe to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I unhesitatingly recommend them to all who are run-down in health."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at all drug stores or they will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box by writing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Anyone with an eye for the curious twists of history must be interested in the fact that Primo De Rivera, ex-dictator of Spain, was kept alive for many years past by insulin, developed in the New World, which was discovered by a man financed by the Spanish Court, nearly four and a half centuries ago.

Canada's Forest Area

The total forest area of Canada is estimated to be 1,151,454 square miles. Of this area, 865,880 square miles are productive and accessible; a little over one third of this area bears timber of merchantable size; the remainder carries young growth not yet fit for use.

Boosting For Canada

Many Cities In Britain Have Held
"Canada Week"

There has not been much said in Canadian newspapers about the city of Bristol's "Canada Week," and the event should have been taken more notice of than it was.

Bristol is a city of 400,000 people. It has just had a "Canada Week," which consisted of a campaign for the buying of goods made in Canada. Pages of newspaper advertising space, posters, window displays of Canadian merchandise, and other forms of publicity were given to our products, and the cumulative results must have meant the selling of many thousands of dollars worth of goods, besides the value of introducing lines of Canadian goods to Bristol purchasers for the first time.

Glasgow, with a population of over a million, and several other big cities, have held "Canada Weeks," and Canada must have derived a large amount of permanent benefit from them.

Such gestures of good-will deserve the practical approval of Canadians. There is a great deal more boosting of Dominion products in Great Britain than there is of English products over here. The Empire Marketing Board spends about $5,000,000 on the promotion of the sale of Empire goods in the British Isles. We sell a vast quantity of merchandise over there, and then spend most of our money in buying United States' goods.

Canada will wait till the moon turns into cheese before a "Canada Week" is staged in one of the big cities over the border.

There are surgical ant martyrs in Peru. Advice from an expedition of the Field Museum tell that when a native of the equatorial forest is wounded, he gets a certain type of ant with powerful jaws. After he bites his body is snipped off and his head with its death grip on the skin remains till the wound is healed.

Major Developments In Canada's Air Mail Service Attracting Great Attention

Canada, with her vast area and widely scattered population, is advantageously situated to derive the greatest benefits from the development of internal air mail service. The great distances which separate the principal urban centres and the steady and broad-fronted advance in settlement and development serve to render postal communication by air peculiarly valuable in the Dominion. In addition, the Post Office Department of Canada has entered into a reciprocal arrangement with the United States postal authorities whereby Canada may take full advantage of the extensive United States air mail services connecting with points in Mexico, the West Indies, and Central and South America.

The establishment of Canada's official air post service is of comparatively recent date, but the conveyance of mail matter by air within Canada has been an actual fact for over ten years. In the early days of mail transportation by air, the Post Office Department, as a temporary measure, gave permission to the operating aviation companies to carry letters, entirely at the sender's risk and subject to a rate of ranging from five cents to twenty-five cents per letter, in addition to the regular postage. These rates were retained by the operating company. The successful operation of numerous "airline" services demonstrated beyond question the essential practicability of air mail transport in the Dominion, for these services were conducted in many cases under considerable operating difficulties although not on hard-and-fast schedules.

Civil aviation in Canada assumed proportions in 1927 which justified the Post Office Department in utilizing the facilities available for the fast transport of mails, not only to remote areas but between the larger centres of population. The latter type had of course to be arranged on definite time schedules and this involved a much greater problem. As a beginning a service was inaugurated by which incoming British mails were taken from trans-Atlantic steamers and transported by air to Montreal, thus considerably hastening their delivery. Later, on October 1, 1928, a service of daily frequency was established between Montreal and Toronto, and on the same day an international air mail route was opened between Montreal, P.Q., and Albany, N.Y. On July 15, 1929, the Montreal-Toronto route was extended to Detroit via Hamilton, London, and Windsor, Ontario, and thus a point of contact with the United States air mail routes westward was established, in addition to providing the most densely populated portion of Ontario with speedy air mail service. On the same date a still further connection with southern air mail routes was provided by the establishment of daily service between Toronto and Buffalo. Notwithstanding the difficulties of operation in the Maritime Provinces, a service of reliable landing fields, densely wooded areas, broken country, and fog—the Postmaster-General inaugurated a service early in December, 1929, between Montreal, Quebec, Moncton, and Saint John.

The next major development in Canadian Air Mail Service was the inauguration of the trans-pacific route on March 2, 1930. Flights are now operating daily between Winnipeg, Regina, Moose Jaw, Medicine Hat, and Calgary, and between Regina, Saskatoon, North Battleford, and Edmonton on a schedule which clips a full twenty-four hours of the transcontinental movement of Canadian mails. This not only constitutes a marked advance towards the coast-to-coast service which is being developed link by link, but revolutionizes intercommunication between the provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan, and Manitoba.

It is in the outlying portions of the country, however, that the most valuable work of Canada's Mail Service has been carried out. Until recently the remote settlements along the north shore of the St. Lawrence River, on Anticosti and the Magdalen Islands in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, and along the sub-arctic reaches of the Mackenzie River, have been almost cut off from the outside world during the winter months. Communication with these remote dog team and other primitive methods until the recent dramatic change to swift aeroplane rendered the duration of mail trips from weeks to hours.

The establishment of contract air mail services in the Mackenzie District, the most northerly of all air mail services in December, 1929, at Fort Smith, has been a landmark. The route from McMurray, down the Athabasca River, along the south shore of Great Slave Lake and down the Mackenzie River, a distance of 100 miles long, Hitherto, in the winter months, dog teams had been the sole means of communication and the volume of mail was correspondingly small being limited to letters and a few newspapers. The total amount for Alaska in the winter of 1929-30 was less than two hundred pounds. Contrast this with the remarkable conditions obtaining on the recent air mail facilities. Ten thousand pounds of mail were carried on the first flights; over a thousand pounds alone for Alaska at the mouth of the Mackenzie. The chief remaining routes are those which penetrate the rich mining areas of Ontario and Manitoba, i.e., Red Lake, Kissinging, and Beattie. They are the principal mineral areas served by air mail in Canada.

The development of flying fields and provision of lighting facilities, not to mention the contact improvements in aircraft which may be expected during the next few years, will undoubtedly do much to facilitate the performance of regular scheduled air mail services within Canada. Meanwhile the advantages maintained by the direct operating companies are remarkably high. In addition to holding the world's record for speed over national air mail lines, the Canadian service proudly boasts that it has never lost a single piece of mail out of the hundreds of tons that have been entrusted to it.

Mature Corn For Sale Superiority Over Immature Corn Proved By Tests

The superiority of mature corn over immature corn is clearly demonstrated by tests conducted at the Dominion Experiment Station, at Brandon, Manitoba. In a series of tests in which a group of six cobs were fed alternately, mature and immature corn crops, a marked increase in the volume of milk produced, and in respect to gain in body weight, was shown by the group fed mature corn. The relative feed values shown by laboratory tests are: for mature corn 69.1 per cent, moisture content, 27.7 per cent, protein, 6.1 per cent, fat, 14.63 carbohydrates, 9.27 fibre, and 1.62 per cent ash; for immature corn the moisture content was 82.6 per cent, protein 1.71 per cent, fat 9.1 per cent, carbohydrates 7.74, fibre 5.45, and ash 1.59 per cent.

Mail Use Percentage Of Domestic Flour

Legislation Is In Force In Five European Countries

State legislation requiring millers to use a certain percentage of domestic flour in milling of bread is in force in Germany, France, Spain, Switzerland and Portugal. States Hon. G. M. Gillett, secretary of the overseas trade department, in a written answer to a question in connection with the proposal that the British had should contain a statutory proportion of British-grown wheat flour.

The minimum in France is as high as 97 per cent. It is declared, in Spain the minimum is 5 per cent. 50 per cent is fixed in Switzerland and Portugal, but millers in those countries must, also, delivery of a certain quantity of native wheat.

Canadian National Parks, With Wonderful Scenic Beauty, Form a Great National Asset

The coming season promises to be one of great tourist activity so far as the national parks of Canada are concerned. Officials, both of the Department of the Interior and of the railways, report an unusually large number of requests for information and advance bookings. Large numbers of inquiries have also been received in the department from motorists in practically every section of Canada and the United States, and even from Mexico. The majority of these ask for the shortest routing to Canada's national parks, a description of the different attractions, the accommodations and particularly the facilities for camping.

A comparative analysis of the various applications shows that by all odds the strongest appeal of the parks is their scenic beauty and wide diversity of quality. An extract from one expresses the demand of many: "I want to visit the park containing the prettiest mountain scenery, as I want to camp out in the wilderness, and go mountain climbing." Some of these letters reveal that the visitors know almost nothing of Canadian geography. They have heard a rumour of the greatness of the national parks of Canada and they write to ask where they are and how they can get to them. Apparently it has come to be accepted in the minds of the travelling public the continent over that national parks represent the finest examples of magnitude, power, and beauty in natural scenery, in a setting of unspoiled primitive conditions, and their number is now sufficient guarantee of their attractiveness.

Visitors to the national parks come with varied needs, some seeking health, others mere recreation, but the majority are impelled by a desire for rest and freedom. Whether they realize it or not they are usually seeking a way of escape from the increasing complexity and routine of our highly mechanized civilization.

life into a world of peace, solitude, and inspiring beauty. In the face of the majestic grandeur of the Rockies, the enchanting loveliness of such places as Lake Louise, the Valley, Maligne Lake or Mount Robson, a man is lifted out of a pre-occupation with his purely personal problems into a kind of deeper satisfaction and healing of mind, passing, as has been said, "through wonder into joy."

This, in the final analysis, is perhaps the strongest appeal of the national parks. They supply something which answers to a universal craving, a hunger innate apparently in every human being and which must become more deeply felt as population increases and conditions of life on this continent grow more artificial and restricted. Already, the world over, there is a recognition that our present mechanized development may, in the long run, condemn us everywhere away. That is, perhaps, one reason why the recent announcement of Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of the Interior, that he hoped the time would soon come when there would be a national park in every province.

The more far-sighted of our people realize that the changes which will pass over the national parks, during the next hundred years will be enormous. While Canada is already leading the world in the reservation of areas for national parks, it is recognized that the needs of the future are sure to be great and that the preservation of our natural beauty is now, while the land is still unoccupied and primitive conditions in many parts still exist.

Visitors to the national parks last year reached over half a million people, this last travel large as it is, only in its infancy. The creation of new parks such as the Riding Mountain park recently set aside in Manitoba, the extension and improvements of federal and provincial motor highways now under way will provide new stimuli for travel and, incidentally, bring in new wealth to the Dominion. Expenditure of visitors to the parks range from a few dollars a day to as high as $100 per day. One visitor to the Canadian West last year revealed that in addition to his travel and transportation expenses his party of four had spent $8,000 during a three weeks visit, most of it with retail firms. Every new park created becomes an addition to our capital stock and increases our power of attracting tourists. It helps to revitalize the prosperity of the railway and steamship companies, hotels, lodging houses, retail and wholesale merchants, and in fact spreads out so as to affect every trade and industry. The name national park has come to stand for such a high degree of excellence that once an area is set aside as a park, travel tends to flow to it in ever-increasing volume. Both in the return they can give in health and happiness and in actual economic results the national parks must become an increasing national asset.

New Method For Making Shoes
Factory methods used in mass production of automobiles are being introduced into leading shoe factory of Erfurt, Germany. The 60-horsepower machine, in fact, spreads out so as to affect every trade and industry. The inventor claims the method will reduce costs and increase production.

Submarine cables of the world now have a total of 300,000 miles.

FIRST AID SCHOOL ON WHEELS

With a view to extending adequate First Aid instruction to its employees in the outlying sections of the system, one of the three new First Aid cars which have just been completed for the Canadian National Railways has been placed in the Western Region for service. Fully equipped and in charge of a competent instructor, the car will travel to outlying points, bringing courses of instruction to engine men and train men, agents and construction and maintenance of way men who have ordinarily no means of obtaining this knowledge. While their primary use is for instruction, they are, as well, travelling stations ready to assist in emergency, and are the first cars of this type to go into service on a railroad in Canada.

SEEMS ASSURED

Presence of D. M. McLean and Kingsley Rose, of the Royal Canadian Air Force, in the district between Calgary and Edmonton is viewed in aviation circles here as the first step of postal authorities towards the establishment of a north-south air mail service between the two cities. McLean and Rose, it will be remembered, selected sites for emergency landing fields and beacons on the routes of the cross-prairie air mail service last autumn.

While no official statement is forthcoming, it is believed that the officers are engaged in a survey of the district between the two cities with a view to selecting emergency fields and beacon sites similar to those on the east-west routes.

They are expected to arrive in Edmonton within the week. —Journal.

ADVERTISE THE TOWN

No business man in any place should allow a newspaper published in his town to go without his name and business being mentioned somewhere. It does not mean that you should have a whole, half or even a quarter page advt., but your name should be mentioned if you do not use more than a two-line space. A stranger picking up a newspaper should be able to tell what business is represented in the town by looking at a paper. This is the best possible town advertiser. The man who does not advertise his business does an injustice to himself and the town. The life of a place depends on the live, wideawake and liberal advertising man. — American Banker's Magazine.

WEED CONTROL PROGRAMME

The Alberta Department of Agriculture has now completed its plans for the weed control programme of 1936.

Under the Field Crops Branch the Province has been divided into fifteen districts. In each of these districts a Field Supervisor will be stationed. His duties will be to co-operate with Weed Inspectors appointed by Municipal Councils, and in Local Improvement Districts, in general weed control work and the enforcement of The Noxious Weed Act.

Farmers of the Province are urged to avail themselves of the services of these men. Their office centres are being advertised in this issue.

Establishing Training Centres For Criminals

English Prison Commission Plans To Train Men In Suitable Work

As part of the scheme to reclaim young criminals, the English prison commission will establish a series of training centres, the first of which will be at Nottingham, where men of a special class between the ages of 21 and 26 will be sent. The aim will be to train each man in the work for which he is best suited. The men will work eight hours a day.

Speaking of the scheme, an official of the prison commission said in an interview: "Probably we shall attach some of the men to the building parties and engineers. There will be physical training, and in the evenings educational pursuits."

Further the official said: "Criminals will not be sent to the training centre direct by order of the courts, but will graduate from the prison to the training centre."

YOUTHFUL CHARM

All Tingey models are created and sketched in Paris and the patterns are made in New York.

Here's a darling frock for college girls and debutantes. It has a moulded bodice and softly flared skirt—a style adorable for slim young bodies. The collar and cuffs are charming too, easy to make and yet so fascinating when finished.

Flat silk crepe and wool crepe are lovely for this model, but another suitable and charming medium is marocain.

Imagine, for instance, soft green or scarlet marocain, with organdie ruffled with cream tinted valenciennes to match.

Another extremely pretty way of treating the collar and cuffs is to use organdie with ruffles of narrow matching ribbon. Sometimes this can be purchased with a tiny metal edge which makes a most attractive finish.

Of course a bought collar and cuff set can be worn with this model.

This pattern may be obtained in sizes 14 to 20 and 34 to 39. It is ready for immediate delivery. It is hand cut.

Pattern price 25 cents. Be sure to fill in size of pattern. Address Pattern Department.

Determined By Owner

Milk Production Of Dairy Cow Depends On Pasture and Winter Feed

The average yield of milk per cow is computed statistically and the damaging figures are given to the world. There is, however, one encouraging feature about these cow averages, for in the lifetime of a generation our foster mothers do yield to the persuasive influences of publicity and propaganda and step up the the average about 200 pounds. Our cows are improving, gradually; there is no doubt about that, but as husbandmen, or dairymen are we making similar progress in the number of acres required to maintain a cow respectably for a year?

A dairy cow has absolutely no choice as to her parentage or sustenance. The average milk production is determined by the owner not by the cow. The number of acres required for pasture and to produce winter feed is really worse than the average milk yield. And here again the owner or farmer is the deciding factor.

It is probably a conservative statement to make that a full grown cattle beast requires 3 acres for summer pasture alone, 1½ acres for hay and still another acre or two for grain, silage and roots. Roughly speaking, between 5 and 6 acres of good farm land are utilized in the maintenance of every cow or maturing steer. It is good grazing, as pasture goes, when three acres will maintain an animal for the summer season. On some of the best grazing land in Ontario only 25 head are turned on to 100 acres.

Through improved methods of grassland management, pastures in the Old Country have been made to maintain one head per acre. In Canada we cannot expect to equal the grazing possibilities of English meadows, but our pastures could be enormously improved through fertilization and better management.

Considering rental values, inconvenience incident to water supply and pasturing live stock away from home, it would appear that $5 to $10 per acre could be spent annually on pasture improvement, and still leave a better profit for the owner. An annual expense of this amount has not been incurred where experiments have been tried in Canada and United States, and the results have been highly satisfactory.

"I wonder who wove you," she mused dreamily. "You must have seemed almost a part of him as the weeks passed and he saw your loveliness unfold. Did he dread the finishing of his task, I wonder, knowing that at its end he must give you up forever? And did he know that when he was only a memory his work would live, cherished by some one thousands of miles from its own birthplace?"

She stooped, to brush a hand over the silky surface.

"I think you were woven on an old, old loom," she murmured. "You were, perhaps, the only beautiful thing in some humble room. I think that little children watched you grow, and touched you with small, reverent fingers. I think . . ."

Charmian stiffened, suddenly conscious that a shadow was lying across the rich wine color of the old rug; and the blood flew to her cheeks as she saw Jim Bennett in the doorway. Then she sprang up, laughing, in real confusion.

"How long have you been there, listening to me go on like that?" she asked.

Jim grinned.

"Not long enough to be called an intentional eavesdropper; but long enough to wonder—"

"Wonder what?" urged Charmian as he paused.

"If you'd gone dotty—making such passionate love to an inanimate object. Is it something new?"

"New!" echoed Charmian in amazement. "Can't you see with a single glance that it's ages old? Oh, Jim! wouldn't it be wonderful to furnish a home with beautiful things like this? Why, just to walk on it seems a—a profanation."

"In that case," commented Jim, seating himself on a corner of the doctor's desk, "I don't know as 'Home, Sweet Home' would be a real comfortable retreat. If a feller got hollered at every time he happened to step on a rug that was in the way—well, you're right, Charmian, the air would be liable to become charged with something related to profanation!"

Charmian laughed. Then her eyes grew troubled, and she questioned: "But you like it, don't you, Jim? You see its beauty?"

"The young man, sensing that this question was a serious matter to the girl, looked down at the rug thoughtfully, then up at the window hangings—at the candlesticks upon the mantel, and at last came back to the anxious eyes of his old playmate.

"Yes, I like it, Charmian; but I was wondering if what pleased me wasn't, maybe, just the whole thing. It looks like you, somehow—this room, I mean. That's why I like it. I suppose," he added honestly, "if you were to hang ten-cent muslin at the windows, and put an American rug with a blue dog in the middle of it like Lizzie Baker's, on the floor, I'd think it was all right because you said so. In some ways, Charmian, I'm a damn fool."

The girl laughed, though she was secretly touched; and asked: "What brings you out this hour of the morning?"

"A trip over beyond South Wickfield, to see about a mortgage for the bank. Thought you might go with me. It's a bully day."

"So it is," she replied regretfully, with a second longing glance toward the open door, "but I've just refused to go with the two M.D.'s because of an extra lot of duties."

"Let 'em wait a day longer. If I could cut out one of those M.D.'s I'd see a ray of light in the surrounding gloom."

"Better take your mother," suggested Charmian, making an unsuccessful effort to suppress a smile.

"She can't go. I—"

"So I'm second fiddle? I wonder, Jim, will any girl ever be anything else to you?"

Instantly, Charmian would have given worlds to recall those words. A look sprang into Jim Bennett's face that brought back an almost forgotten memory—the same look that had swept over his countenance when as a small boy he had been reproved by the teacher because . . .

In a flash the whole scene came back to her: the old schoolroom with its familiar odor born of chalk and much-thumbed books—Jim, back at his desk for the first time since his father's funeral—the class standing to read, "O Captain, my Captain," and a cruel fate bringing to the boys turn those words:

"My Captain does not answer, his lips are pale and still,
My father does not feel my arm,
he has no pulse or will . . ."

And Jim, white-faced, thin-lipped, had refused to read! He had been sent home in disgrace, carrying a sharp reprimand from a teacher who saw in the defiant pupil, only an unruly little boy. It was Charmian Davis who opened her eyes to the true state of things, when, as the doors closed behind the white-faced culprit, she had burst into a passion of sympathetic tears.

"Don't you see," she sobbed. "he— he couldn't read it without crying? . . . His own father . . . only the other day . . . And he couldn't cry right before the whole school, could he? So . . . so . . ."

Be it said for the teacher that she cried herself, when brought face to face with her own thoughtlessness.

Later she told Grandma Davis that she had received a lesson she never could forget. And now, years afterward, the scene came back to Charmian with fresh poignancy, and she knew that, somehow, she had hurt the grown-up Jim in the same way he had been hurt on that long-gone day when the teacher misunderstood: Was it possible that she, too, misunderstood him?

Jim, who had thrown his hat on the doctor's desk, reached for it, and, ignoring her careless words, started toward the door. But Charmian, always quick to acknowledge a mistake, barred the way, and the surprised young man felt her hand slip into his.

"Jimmy, I hurt you, didn't I? I don't know what made me such a beast. Just for that I'm going to drop everything and go to ride with you. John Carter can eat cold beans this noon, for all I care! Just wait till I tell Grandma, and—"

Jim laughed, a queer, choky little laugh that she knew came hard.

"Don't be an idiot!" he said. "You haven't hurt me, Charmian; and I won't have you going just for that reason. Honestly, I don't want you to go now. I've got things to mull over in my mind, and you're a disturbing influence. Run along and get your work done. I'm all right."

"But I'm not," smiled the girl. She was gently propelling him out of the doctor's office and toward the house. "I feel the need of air and sunshine, and it's your duty to see that I get both. You talk with Grandma while I set the dinner table, so I won't feel so hurried to get back."

She was away, leaving him standing at the door of the old parlor where Grandma Davis was keeping her accustomed vigil.

"Hello, sonny," she greeted him. "What you doing away from the bank this time o' day?"

"Running down some interest money," explained Jim. "I've persuaded Charmian that it's too good a day to waste indoors."

"So 'tis," agreed the old lady, "and a ride'll do her a lot of good. I'm hoping maybe she'll get out more often when Doctor Carter gets the car he's ordered. It'll be real natural for him to take her when he rides off in the country, won't it?"

"Too darn natural," replied Jim; then, to change the subject: "What's been happening on Broadway this morning, Grandma?"

"You mean Main Street? Well, I'll admit I've seen things more lively than they've been today; but Lizzie Baker lost her seersucker petticoat right on the sidewalk, and had to step out of it and scurry home. It was worth considerable to see that."

"Gosh! I'll say it was!"

Jim laughed so heartily that Charmian, setting the table in the room beyond, breathed a sigh of relief, and called: "What's happened? Is it so funny?"

"It wasn't funny for Lizzie Baker," replied Grandma. "You leave that table, dearie. If you're late back the doctor can set it himself; and you mustn't keep Jim waiting. There's nothing irritates a man like being kept waiting."

"The table's set; and I won't keep him waiting a minute longer. Ready, Jim?"

He nodded, rising slowly as if reluctant to take his eyes from the picture the girl made as she waited, with the dusky hall as a background for her blue gown. A pink scarf across her arm added a splash of color that matched her cheeks; and if the young man had been slow to appreciate the beauty of an oriental rug, he was certainly not slow to appreciate the charm of his old playmate.

"Where's your hat?" asked Grandma. "You're not going clear to South Wickfield without a hat!"

Charmian laughed. "I most surely am! After the gorgeous greenness that Jim's accustomed to, I'd be ashamed of—"

"Shucks!" broke in Grandma. "Your old black straw with the pink roses is enough sight prettier than that—that—"

Words failed her, and the two young people laughed as Jim respond-

Indigestion

What most people call indigestion is usually excess acid in the stomach. The food has soured. The instant remedy is an alkali which neutralizes acids. But don't use crude helps. Use what your doctor would advise.

The best help is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. For the 50 years since its invention it has remained standard with physicians. You will find nothing else so quick in its effect, so harmless, so efficient.

One tasteless spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in acid. The results are immediate, with no bad after-effects. Once you learn this fact, you will never deal with excess acid in the crude ways. Go learn—now—why this method is supreme.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any drugstore.

Little Helps For This Week

"Giving thanks always for all things."—Ephesians 5, 20.

Whatso it be, howso it be, Amen! Blessed it is believing not to see: Now God knows all that is; and we shall then—

Whatso it be!

God's will is best for man, whose will is free;

God's will is better to us, yea, than ten

Desires, whereof He holds and weighs the key—

He knows all want, allots each where and when—

Whatso it be!

—Christina G. Rossetti.

Thou alone knowest what is good for me; Thou alone art Lord of all; do therefore what seemeth to Thee best. Give to me or take from me; conform my will to Thine; and grant that with humble and perfect submission and in holy reverence I may be disposed to receive the orders of Thy eternal providence, and may equally adore every dispensation which shall come to me from Thy Hand.—Pascal.

Using Automatic Pilots

British 'Planes Make Long Flights With Robot Control

The entire squadron of British night bombing aeroplanes, fitted with "robot" electrical controls, has flown continuously as far as 400 miles without human pilots taking charge. Routes from South England to Scotland have been followed, with automatic pilots, actuated by radio from the ground, in complete charge, and the aeroplanes brought safely to a predetermined destination. The automatic landing is accomplished by means of a weighted wire, which, as soon as it comes in contact with the aerodrome, causes the aeroplane to "flatten out" and glide in with the engine throttle back.

Idea Is Alright

But People Should Build Foundation Under Air Castles

"If you have built castles in the air, your work need not be lost; that is where they should be. Now put the props under them," said Henry David Thoreau. Helen Keller says we cannot always realize our ideals, but we can always realize our realities, and our ideas must be practical if we are to make a religion of them and live by them. Phillips Brooks expressed a high ideal in these words: "We reduce life to the pettiness of our daily living. We should exalt our living to the grandeur of life."
